

Interdivisional Programs

---

The University of Chicago has a distinctive and distinguished tradition of interdisciplinary research and teaching. Faculty and students with interests that span departmental lines are readily able to find colleagues throughout the University. The many interdivisional programs that flourish at the University vary widely in purpose and organization. Some are formal, degree granting committees, some are area studies centers, some are comparatively informal groupings of faculty and advanced students who share an interest in some method, approach, or subject area. The major interdivisional programs are shown below.

- The Council on Advanced Studies
- Institute for Biophysical Dynamics
- Center for the Study of Race, Politics, and Culture
- Center for East Asian Studies
- Center for East European and Russian/Eurasian Studies
- The Enrico Fermi Institute
- The Morris Fishbein Center for the History of Science and Medicine
- The James Franck Institute
- Center for the Study of Gender and Sexuality
- Pozen Family Center for Human Rights
- Center for International Studies
- Center for Jewish Studies
- Center for Latin American Studies
- Center for Middle Eastern Studies
- NORC
- Committee on Southern Asian Studies/South Asia Language & Area Center
- Stevanovich Institute on the Formation of Knowledge

Font Notice

This document should contain certain fonts with restrictive licenses. For this draft, substitutions were made using less legally restrictive fonts. Specifically:

Times was used instead of Trajan.

Times was used instead of Palatino.

The editor may contact Leepfrog for a draft with the correct fonts in place.