The University of Chicago has a distinctive and distinguished tradition of interdisciplinary research and teaching. Faculty and students with interests that span departmental lines are readily able to find colleagues throughout the University. The many interdivisional programs that flourish at the University vary widely in purpose and organization. Some are formal, degree granting committees, some are area studies centers, some are comparatively informal groupings of faculty and advanced students who share an interest in some method, approach, or subject area.

THE COUNCIL ON ADVANCED STUDIES IN THE HUMANITIES, SOCIAL SCIENCES, AND THE DIVINITY SCHOOL

Chair
Deborah Nelson, Deputy Provost for Graduate Education

Members
- Daniel Arnold
- Shadi Bartsch-Zimmer
- Robert Bird
- Mark Philip Bradley
- Andreas Glaeser
- John Kelly
- Katherine Kinzler
- Jonathan Lear
- Jill Mateo
- John McCormick
- Eric Santner
- Judith Zeitlin

Ex Officio Members
- Margaret M. Mitchell, Dean of the Divinity School
- Martha T. Roth, Dean of the Division of Humanities
- Mario L. Small, Dean of the Division of Social Sciences

Administrative Director
Julianne Gorny

THE COUNCIL ON ADVANCED STUDIES
Judd Hall 443/444
5835 South Kimbark Avenue
Chicago, IL 60637
(773) 702-8540
cas@uchicago.edu
http://cas.uchicago.edu